

Norfolk Collegiate Wins Atlantic Coasts, November 12-13, 2011

Severn Is Second

Toms River South Places Third

The Norfolk Collegiate School mastered the shifty conditions at the 2011 Atlantic Coast Championship to pull off a 16 point win against 16 other high schools. Teams traveled from as far as Maine and Florida to compete at the Sailing Center Chesapeake, a new community boating outlet located in Southern Maryland.

A light southwesterly greeted the sailors on Saturday morning. The breeze slowly built all day long on Herring Creek until it was 10-12 knots at the end of the day. Sunday saw the same direction and more wind that gradually shifted into the west by the last race.

Senior I. Stokes of Norfolk Collegiate beat C. Lalumiere of Falmouth High School from Maine by 4 points to take A Division. G. Hobbs from Tampa Jesuit topped B Division with 9 points over M. White of Severn.

Severn provided some great drama in the final two races with finishes of 3, 2, 2, and 1. But this was not enough to overcome the substantial lead that Norfolk Collegiate enjoyed through most of the event. Both of these teams dealt with the shifty and puffy conditions very well.
